Background

In its resolution A/RES/74/135, on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, the United Nations General Assembly proclaimed the period 2022-2032 as the International Decade of Indigenous Languages (IDIL2022-2032). The General Assembly resolution invited the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) to serve as the lead organization for the International Decade in cooperation with the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UNDESA) and other relevant agencies, within existing resources.

The UNGA resolution “proclaims the period 2022-2032 as the International Decade of Indigenous Languages, to draw attention to the critical loss of Indigenous languages and the urgent need to preserve, revitalize and promote Indigenous languages and to take urgent steps at the national and international levels, and invites the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to serve as the lead agency for the International Decade, in collaboration with the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat, and other relevant agencies, within existing resources”¹.

The UNGA resolution also “invites Member States to consider establishing national mechanisms with adequate funding for the successful implementation of the International Decade of Indigenous Languages in partnership with Indigenous peoples, and invites Indigenous peoples, as custodians of their own languages, to initiate and develop appropriate measures for the implementation of the International Decade”.

Pursuant to the resolution (A/RES/74/135), UNESCO will facilitate the organization of the IDIL2022-2032 through a series of actions, including, but not limited to:

- (i) Elaboration and contribution to the implementation of the Global Action Plan of the International Decade of Indigenous Languages² (Global Action Plan) through evidence based, inclusive, participatory and open consultations with representatives of Member States, Indigenous peoples, Indigenous Peoples’ institutions and organizations, United Nations entities, academia, civil society organizations and other public and private actors;
- (ii) Establishment and maintenance of the international governance mechanism entitled Global Task Force for Making a Decade of Action for Indigenous Languages (Global Task Force) to provide strategic direction and oversight in the planning, implementation and monitoring of progress made towards attainment of the objectives established by the Global Action Plan;
- (iii) Development and contribution to the implementation of a Resource Mobilization Strategy to provide a comprehensive framework to ensure adequate, sustainable, flexible and sufficient resources for the implementation and attainment of the major objectives of the Global Action Plan, and the realization of programmes and projects to preserve, revitalize and promote Indigenous languages (Ref.: UNESCO 210 EX/Decision 5.I.D);
- (iv) Preparation of and contribution to the implementation of a Global Communication Strategy for the IDIL2022-2032 to raise greater awareness on the importance of Indigenous languages
